POLITICAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

The new state of Washington starts off prosperously. There were but 15 Democrats elected to her legislature out of a total of 110.

In Michigan this year the wheat yield will be 23,127,650 bushels, which is about 4,000,000 below the average of the 10 years from 1873 to 1889.

Ex-Convict Jim Cox was re-elected by the Indianapolis Democrats. He is still their beloved leader, which shows what sort of people those Indianapolis Democrats are. — Det. Tribune.

The "campaign of education": the Democrats were running last year educated the new state of the Northwest up to the point of sending a solid Republican delegation to the national House of Representatives.

It was just three hundred and ninety-seven years ago yesterday since Christopher Columbus discovered America. It was on the 3d of August, 1492, that he sailed from Spain, and over ten weeks later, on October 12, he first set foot on the Western Hemisphere.

The state board of health directs that all cases of "typhumular fever" shall be reported to the local health officers and the same precautions taken as in typhoid fever. Also that all cases of fever continuing over seven days must be reported and precautions taken, as in other diseases dangerous to the public health.

A careful collation of examples shows that the men who have been sneering at President Harrison because he had an honorable and honored grandfather, are generally persons whose own grandfathers had no record of which their descendants can be proud, or else don't know who their own grandfathers were. — Telegraph.

Suppose we search the world over for the facts of the trust question. What is the result? Simply that of all countries England is the worst trust and syndicate-ridden place in civilization. It is not content with its own territory, but it is striving in every possible way to place its monopolistic "thieves and stealers" in all American industries that it can touch. — Public Interest.

Gen. Wm. Shakespeare, of Kalama-zoo, now a prominent Democratic politician, and who was a gallant soldier in the union army, joins Col. Geo. D. Sayford, of Lansing, in condemning his party press for its attitude on pension matters and pensioners. "If the Democratic party desires to make a prominent Republican the next president of the United States, let them continue in their present course, and they will accomplish their object," he says.

Mr. Thompson, the leader of the Scripps party, which was sent to Europe to get it on the subject of free trade, responding to the inquiry of a New York reporter, said: "Almost every trade was represented in our party, and they examined carefully the products and machinery of the old country. It was observed that the machinery is cumbersome, lacking the completeness that is seen in our country. It was found that the wages are on an average of 25 per cent lower than in America."

The Helena Journal says the Democratic candidate for governor of Montana was elected by 850 Dagoes who were not naturalized; when they went up to the polls to vote they each handed the election judges a card bearing these words: "I can neither speak nor write the English language. I desire to vote the straight Democrat ticket." The Democratic managers in Montana must have graduated from some such political school as none of the slick workers in the lower precincts of this city were educated in. — Det. Tribune.

The Detroit Free Press says: "It taxes the great renown which came with the march to the sea, to protect Gen. Sherman from ridicule when now, in his old age, he takes to talking politics." The Free Press is bound to be consistent. When Gen. Sherman made his famous march to the sea the Free Press didn't appreciate it; it was a march against his political friends and allies. And now, when the local old general feels that the people of the country are entitled to the fruits of the victory which that grand march did so much to secure, and wants loyal men in the South to have the same political rights as they do in the North, the Free Press don't appreciate his talk; it is a talk against his political friends and allies. Evidently it requires an effort on the part of the Free Press to restrain from breaking forth into ridicule; it would do so if it were a Proctor & Gamble.

A new order went into effect last Sunday week, on the Michigan Central railroad, whereby passengers will not be carried under any circumstance upon any freight train, except such as are designated, and between points named upon the time table. Nor will they be carried upon such freight trains unless provided with freight train permits. Freight trains authorized to carry passengers will not stop at the stations where permits are not sold to receive or let off passengers.

One feature of the next census will be special interest to veterans of the civil war and their surviving relatives — namely the roll of all men who have served in the army and are now living and the names of the widows of the deceased veterans. The list will be taken by the enumerators, who will ascertain the name of the veteran, his present residence, the name of the organization to which he belonged and his rank and length of service in each. It will probably be decided to classify them by organizations. It will then be possible for the comrades of a veteran by turning to the record of his regiment to learn his present residence and send there for such information as they wish.

The Detroit Tribune is not as a rule subject to "spells," but it is suffering just now from a bad fit of star-spangled bannerism, and unless it is quenched it will infect the people of the entire State, until "old glory" waves proudly from every school house in Michigan. But, just aside, the Tribune is doing a grand work. The place to teach the first lessons in patriotism is in the public schools, commencing in the kindergarten department, and the stars and stripes one of the very best of object lessons for that purpose. Let it be one of the first objects to greet the pupils in the morning and the last thing at night, and the schoolboys of today will rally round it with all the more enthusiasm should they be called upon to do so on future battlefields. Long may they wave, both the old flag and the Tribune — Kalkaska Leader.

With big crops in the United States and small crops abroad, as is the case just now, the country has a chance for a time at least, to repeat the experience begun ten years ago, and continued for two or three years. The great importation of gold, which began about that time, and which reached its greatest proportions in 1880 and 1881, had had an important influence in enabling the country to resume specie payments in 1879, and to make this policy permanent. A business boom such as began in that year and continued to 1893 is not probable now, nor is it altogether desirable. A fair share of quiet, solid and sustained prosperity, however, seems assured. — Louisville Daily Democrat.

The bright and shining light of modern democracy, the Nashville American, appeals to the democrats every where to "turn out in full force and bury forever beneath the weight of their ballots the miscreants and bunglers, bounty grabbers and Grand Army plunderers and imported carpet-baggers and home-made scoundrels who have since the inauguration of President Harrison been disporting themselves to the contempt of honest and decent men."

Why certainly, of course, "Turn out in full force" your entire gang of knaves, red shirts, regulators, mud-sloggers, masked assassins, negro whippers, ballot-box stagers and political foot-pads, and begin the work of "perform" at once. Turn up the red flag, hurrah for Jeff Davis and damn the Yankees is the way to do it. Don't repeat your feelings, brethren.

Did you make the country what it is? Isn't it all yours? Are not the old Union soldiers — these bunglers and bounty-grabbers you speak of — lot of spiced scampers, saved only by your tender mercy? Why permit them longer to cumber the earth? — Det. Tribune.

A special to the N. Y. Press, from Atlanta, Ga., says: — Senator Gilmer, spoke, yesterday in the legislature in favor of forcing the negroes to leave the state. He referred to the whole race as vagabonds. "Emancipated," he said, "the negro becomes useless and dominant and intrudes into the negro's wood-pile. The lives and the honor of southern women are in constant danger at the hands of the scoundrels. The time will come before long when the white people of the state will rise as one man and demand the banishment or extermination of the negro."

I approve of the whipping of the negroes at East Point. When white men strike for their home and freedom, I am with them every time. The time has come when the whites must stand up and defend themselves and their families.

"There is not room enough in this country for both the negro and the Yankee. The negroes are always at the call of the carpet-bagger. I want to see this state, at least, rid of the whole race."

The vote on the question was in the North, the Free Press don't appreciate his talk; it is a talk against his political friends and allies. Evidently it requires an effort on the part of the Free Press to restrain from breaking forth into ridicule; it would do so if it were a Proctor & Gamble.

A great change in public sentiment on the tariff question has been taking place in many European nations. A few years ago free trade was the accepted policy of the greater part of Europe. It was so generally adopted that protection was called, by distinction, the American system.

Time changes and men change with them. The folly of free trade and the wisdom of protection are being recognized in many parts of Europe. The United States minister to Holland in a recent report to the State Department sends a copy of an editorial in the organ of the conservative party at the Hague. It suggests very plainly that a return to protection in Holland is not improbable. It calls attention to the changed feeling on this subject in many parts of Europe, and notes that the free-traders are advocating their doctrine very feebly now, in the face of the satisfactory results which come from protection. Several nations that formerly tried free trade are now adopting protection, and are greatly pleased at the change.

WASHINGTON LETTER

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Oc. 11, '61.

The President has given a great deal of his time this week to the 25,000 Knight Templars and their friends who are attending the twenty-fourth annual convocation of that organization. On Tuesday he reviewed the mammoth parade, the biggest of its kind that ever took place; Wednesday evening he gave the Templars and their holy friends a special reception at the White House, which was attended by about 20,000 people. The President and Mrs. Harrison were assisted by Mrs. Secretary Windom, Mrs. Attorney General Miller, Mrs. Secretary Noble and Mrs. Secretary Rush. The White House grounds were beautifully illuminated with colored electric lights. Besides these formal occasions the President has held informal receptions every day.

Politics have been laid aside this week by democrats as well as republicans, and all have devoted their entire attention to entertaining the strangers within our gates, and the consequence is the Knights and their friends are loud in their praises of Washington hospitality and the number of earnest workers for Washington as the place for holding the World's Exposition of 1892, has been increased by thousands.

Secretary Proctor returned to the city yesterday. He took part with the Vermont veterans in the ceremonies on the battle-field of Gettysburg, Wednesday.

Secretary Tracy has issued an order directing the contractors to deliver the "Presto" at the Norfolk Navy Yard, for acceptance by the Government.

The President had a strange caller this week in the person of a merchant all the way from Morocco, who came to complain of unjust imprisonment at the hands of a United States consul.

The appearance of the merchant, attired in a white robe and a red fez attracted much attention.

Private Secretary Halford continues unwell. It has been necessary to perform a very painful surgical operation upon him, which it is hoped will give him relief. Under the most favorable circumstances it will be some time before he can resume his active duties. If the operation does not afford the relief expected he will resign. If he should be compelled to resign there will be deep regret here, where he has hundreds of friends.

The Swiss government has made an explanation and tendered an apology for the imprisonment of a citizen of Baltimore who was recently travelling in Switzerland. No complaint had been made to the State Department, the apology was voluntary on the part of the Swiss.

Much uneasiness was created in political circles, particularly among the democrats, early this week by a report that the veteran congressman, Samuel J. Randall, was dangerously ill. Later reports contradicted it and stated that Mr. Randall would be in Washington in a few weeks. The loss of Mr. Randall would be an irreparable loss to the democrats in the House of Representatives.

Mrs. Gen. Logan's reception to the Knight Templars last night was the largest private reception ever held at the Calumet Place, the family residence of the Logans was a blaze of lights inside and out and the spacious grounds covered by luminous canopies looked like a thousand "respects" from multicolored lanterns thickly scattered around. Mrs. Logan considered the performance a tribute to the memory of her husband, who was an enthusiastic Knight.

The local G. A. R. posts have taken up the question of removing the remains of Gen. Grant from New York to Arlington cemetery. Resolutions have been adopted in favor of the removal, and these resolutions are to be sent for endorsement to every post in the United States. If there is any thing like unanimity among the G. A. R. people in favor of the removal it is almost certain to be made.

A large body of Knight Templars made a pilgrimage to Mount Vernon Wednesday and held an impressive service at the tomb of Washington, who was an honored member of the order.

New York and Pennsylvania have the largest representation among the Knight Templars here.

A great change in public sentiment on the tariff question has been taking place in many European nations. A few years ago free trade was the accepted policy of the greater part of Europe. It was so generally adopted that protection was called, by distinction, the American system.

A TOWN IN ASHES.

Serpent River, Ontario, Almost Wiped Out by a Configuration.

Fires broke out in Cook's lumber yard at Serpent River, Ont., while a heavy north-west wind was blowing, which extended the flames to the docks and warehouses of this extensive firm, and soon the whole town was in fire. There were forty buildings in the town, general stores and dwelling houses. Fifty million feet of lumber, this year's cut was consumed. The loss is estimated at $300,000. The vicinity is swarming with household goods and homeless families for acres. The steamer Africa and schooner Marquis, which were loading at the docks, pulled out into the lake and are safe. When the fire was extinguished there were a few buildings and the sawmills saved but no lumber. Cook Brothers, proprietors of the industries, had the finest fire protection on their premises of any firm in that section, but the strong wind spread the fire rapidly. The stock was insured for about half the loss. There are about 200 people homeless, and temporary structures are being erected to house them.

GOVERNMENT HOSPITALS.

What Has Been Done in Them During the Past Year.

The annual report of Supervising Surgeon General Hamilton of the Marine Hospital Service for the year ended June 30, 1889, has been made public. It says that during the year nearly fifty thousand seamen have been treated by the officers of the service at the different hospitals and relief stations throughout the United States, a number exceeding by more than a thousand the work of any year, since the establishment of the service nearly a century ago. A great deal of space in the report is devoted to the subject of yellow fever, and many interesting papers are printed from officers of the service who were in charge of the various stations in the South during the epidemic of last winter.

The Angelus, after exhibition in New York will be shown in Boston and Chicago and possibly elsewhere. There is every prospect that the display of which it will form part in this city, will be one of the most notable ever held of modern art.

A WORTHLESS NAVY.

That of the Argentine Republic in a Badly Criticized Condition.

An official report to the Secretary of War discloses the fact that 35 per cent. of the Argentine naval armaments are quite useless. The report also recommends the abandonment of the Remington rifle for army use. This state of things, unfortunately for the republic, forces the administration to go before Congress asking authority for an enormous expenditure, thereby made necessary, at a time most important when the entire press of the country is averse with articles demanding official retrenchment and reform.

GOVERNMENT APPOINTMENTS.

Date Changes in the Several Department Officials.

The following appointments have been announced:

Edward O. Leech, director of the mint; M. Hammel, painter, and William H. H. Gray, storekeeper for the First Class Depot, and the Second Class Depot, at the War Department. Edward O. Leech, who has been appointed director of the mint, was born in Washington in 1845, graduated from Columbia, and has been in the teaching profession up to his present time. He is also graduated in law from the National University of the District of Columbia, and was admitted to the bar in 1866. Upon his graduation from Columbia he was appointed to the Treasury Department. He entered at the lowest grade of clerkship in 1867, and was transferred to the Auditor's office in 1870, and remained continuously passing through all the grades of clerkship up to his late position, Comptroller of the Bureau, the salary of which was increased in 1887. The Comptroller which purchased Axell is composed of the following gentlemen: W. P. Jiams, Terre Haute, Ind.; A. E. Brush, Detroit; Col. J. W. Conley, Chicago; and Mr. F. T. Moran, of Detroit. These gentlemen were satisfied that the mill made in Terre Haute in 2:12, beating all 8-year-old records by 12 seconds, was done easily and within Axell's limit, and that his future promised greater events. These men are the shrewdest of gentlemen horsemen, and the fact that they were offered $15,000 advance for their bargain testifies to their good judgment.
